

Canada's Interactions with the Global Community

Students are learning about global issues and Canadian organizations. Each student completed a project where they were asked to research an organization and how the organization makes a difference in the world. Students then used the information to create a poster with the purpose of informing their peers about the organization and persuading others of the importance of their work.

We will continue to explore Canada's involvement in addressing global issues, particularly in light of current issues such as Ebola and the crisis in Syria.
